8. (Unclassified - LLM) Based on a conversation with William [redacted] Office of Personnel, I called [redacted]

STATOTHR

STAT

[redacted] who is interested in employment possibilities with the Agency. I told him that his resume had been thoroughly reviewed but that unfortunately we did not have a suitable opening. [redacted] said he understood and that he has a temporary job with a Member and that he is in line to head up the staff of a new subcommittee if it is established.

10. (Internal Use Only - LLM) Mr. Richard Schultz, Associate Chief Counsel, House Internal Security Committee, called and said that he and the Chief Counsel, Don Sanders, had reviewed with Chairman Ichord the possibilities of tightening up on the Scarbeck statute through an amendment to the Internal Security Act of 1950 which is under the Committee's jurisdiction. Schultz said that while Chairman Ichord was sympathetic to our problem, he felt that the chances for success would be better in the context of the overall revision of the Criminal Code which is being considered by the Judiciary Committees. I told Schultz that we, of course, value the Chairman's advice and that our motivation in raising the matter with him was in the interest of exploring all reasonable alternatives. (See Journal of 10 November 1972).

11. (Internal Use Only - LLM) Called Ted Kazy, House Post Office and Civil Service Committee staff, to determine if there had been any clarification through legislation or otherwise of the maximum rate of compensation to consultants under 5 U. S. C. 3109. Kazy said that he was unaware of any action in this regard and that it was only recently that the staff became aware of the Comptroller General's opinion. This information was relayed to [redacted] Office of Personnel.

In response to my question, Kazy said that Representative Frank Brasco (D., N. Y.) had reintroduced his labor management bill in the Federal service as H. R. 13. It was agreed that we would study it for its impact on the Agency and that we would no doubt be calling upon him if it was determined that we needed some relief.
